Flyfishing. The Eagle River starts up near Leadville and flows through Minturn all the way to the Colorado river. The fishing on this river can be excellent for brown, rainbow, brook and cutthroats that exist in the river. Mid summer and fall can be some of the best times to catch larger trout on streamers, nymphs and dries. Access to the river is easy and it is not difficult to find some water that looks fishy. Bring an assortment of flies as the fish can be set on patterns and if you can find the right flies, you'll have a great day of fishing. With numerous hatches and access points, the Eagle River is a great place to fish.

Hiking. To clear up any possible doubts in your mind, if you are visiting Colorado and seeking beautiful pristine places, then the wilderness areas here will satisfy your soul. Splendid beauty, miles and miles of quiet scenic trails. Imagine sitting next to a wilderness waterfall, an occasional humid mist dampening your face, you look up at the sheer valley walls above, so steep and rugged it feels like a place no one has been before. Head right out our back door to Beaver Creek Mountain for a variety of trails for beginners and for those who are more adventurous. Or you can access the trailheads for Colorado Fourteeners by car. Our concierge team will provide you with trailmaps.

Spa. The Westin Riverfront's Spa Anjali - named the #4 Resort Spa in the U.S. for 2012 by the readers of Condé Nast Traveler - offers signature treatments inspired by the healing traditions from the mountains, specifically the Rockies, Alps and Himalayas. Unique services include the Red Clover and Mountain Honey Body Mask, the Moor Mud Wrap and the Himalayan Journey to Serenity day package.

Item number: - 11      Vapen Red 6wt. Rod from Redington

Donor: Redington

Approximate Retail Price: $350 -

Starting bid: $150

Even the most expensive sports cars don't have the saliva-starting aesthetics of the Redington 4-Piece Vapen Red Fly Rod. This sleek quartet of futuristic carbon fiber comes together to create a singularly sweet piece of fast-casting action when you're moving off small streams and into big bodies of water. Red where your hand holds the rod signifies a bold break from the norm, leaving cork behind. Ribbons of high-density carbon fibers are first wrapped inside the blank and then counter-wrapped on the exterior of the blank to increase power, stability, and vibrational dampening. Firing sidearm loops under trees is surprisingly tight and clean, and striking the sweet spot some 50-60 feet is even easier. Load 'er up and toss a few bombs without sacrificing touch for power. Instead of traditional cork handles, the Red reaches for the tech that has kept golfers grinning. Wrap your hand around the Winn non-slip polymer for a softer handle that doesn't get slippery or too hard to hold as the day wears on. Alignment dots take away any uncertainty when it's time to put together your angling weapon.

Item number: - 14      Exquisite Original Gyotaku Fish Rubbing

Donor: Scott Wells

Approximate Retail Price: $450 -

Starting bid: $150

Gyotaku is the ancient art of fish rubbings. Yes, very old, because fishing is a very old sport and fishermen have forever been liars. Fish rubbings are a very accurate way of recording the species and size of a catch, much better than hero shots along with their inevitable “hidden elbows.” The technique was invented by the Japanese for the same reason – it is a most ancient form of taxidermy. Who is this Scott Wells ? Scott is an angler, father, and husband residing in Centennial, Colorado. Scott fishes a lot. Probably too much. But he’s also a finish carpenter producing beautiful final touches on custom homes, and he creates all the beautiful Gyotaku art you see on this site. Read more about Scott Wells here : <http://reelfishink.com/about/the-artist/>

Item number: - 19 Tim Romano mounted fine art trout photograph.

Donor: Tim Romano

Approximate Retail Price: $300 -

Starting bid: $150

Fine arts photographer Tim Romano has conspired to convince his wife and family that in order to produce more and better work he must essentially tackle his vices head-on in the field of play. This hard-earned license to roam has led to assignments in Alaska, Chile, Argentina, New Zealand, Russia, Bahamas, Mexico, British Columbia, and extensively in the US. Tim is a frequent contributor to Field & Stream, and co-writes that magazine's fly fishing blog, "<http://www.fieldandstream.com/blogs/flytalk>." He is also the managing editor of Angling Trade Magazine (the business publication for the Fly Fishing Industry), a contributing editor for MidCurrent, as well a Photo emeritus of the highly regarded publication The Fly Fish Journal. His artwork is part of the permanent collections at Lake Forest College, Photo Americas Portland, Instituto de Artes de Medellin, Colombia, and the University of Colorado, Boulder.

Item number: - 21 . Sage Xi3 9 ft 11 wt.

Donor: Trouts Fly Fishing

Approximate Retail Price: $500 -

Starting bid: $250

Tremendous leveraging and lifting power for that large fish. Amberjack, cobia, king salmon, golden dorado, shark, taiman, red fish, tarpon, rooster fish, and wahoo. Perfect for that trip to Bolivia, Louisiana, Guyana, the Bahamas, Alaska, or Mongolia. You don't have to borrow Mike Hobb's 11 weight. You can take your own, finally.

Picking up 60-70' of fly line, re-directing it accurately, and presenting the fly immediately to swiftly moving fish is a tactic every angler must have. When changing direction with the rod under load, the angler needs the rod to resist torsion. When the rod recovers from the load quickly, it allows the angler to redirect the cast more accurately. This is your chance to have a Sage of your own in the house.

This Sage Xi3 was originally priced at $795 until a new model was released just last month.
